ETHNIC HAUTE COUTURE

Fantastic Creative Opportunity For A Fashion Design Student Or Recent Graduate

A growing ethnic menswear brand is looking for a talented and enthusiastic fashion design student or recent graduate to gain commercial experience by creating a unique design portfolio of stunning sherwanis, jodhpuri suits and indo-western suits.

A keen interest in ethnic mens' fashion is essential, as is researching new market trends and styles to develop an exciting set of garments that complements our brand image.

Attributes that we are looking for in the designer include:

- An understanding of emerging trends in ethnic men's fashion (in the UK and the Indian sub continent) and appreciation of embroidery styles (Zardozi, Lucknowi, etc)
- Excellent drawing skills and the ability to sketch detailed embroidery patterns and cutting edge garment designs.
- A good eye for colour combinations
- An understanding of fabrics and how they drape
- Computer skills in Photoshop and or Illustrator software are preferable but not essential

The chosen designer will be required to create 10 designs for us, which subject to our approval and market response, will be manufactured and marketed in the UK.

We will provide a reference for any future work that the candidate applies for and subject to manufacture of any of the outfits, photographs will be supplied to the designer for use in their portfolio. Subject to the candidate's abilities and initiative, there may be an opportunity for paid work thereafter as well as referral for paid work to other fashion houses.

Interested fashion design students or graduates should submit their CV and a covering letter outlining their suitability to info@amaralondon.com
